Daring route · Vocabulary and grammar

All the vocabulary and grammar of the Learning Paths on the Daring route, with the explanations as they appear on the site.

How to study it

First all the vocabulary, then all the grammar, Learning Path by Learning Path. Learning Path 1 (a warm-up) and Learning Path 6 (the final product) have no new vocabulary or grammar.

Vocabulary: cover the Catalan column and say what each word means; then read the example aloud.

Grammar: read how it works, cover the answer column and complete the sentences; then check and read why.

Connectors

How it works

- Connectors for the writing task: because · although · however · so · as a result · whereas.

Learning Path 3 · Useful expressions

A usual day and a different day

How it works

- Keep the comparison precise. Contrast a usual routine with a particular event, and separate evidence from inference.
- Contrast across time: Alex usually gets up at seven, whereas yesterday he slept in after working late.
- Shared problem, different cause: Both Alex and the speaker struggled to start work: Alex was tired, while the speaker faced interruptions.
- Evidence → inference: Alex decided to turn in early. This suggests that he prioritised rest over entertainment.

Practice from the Learning Path, with answers

Sentence	Answer
Choose the correct use of both.	Both Alex and the speaker had work to do.

They both sometimes ___ on weekends.	sleep in
Although their days are similar, Leo ___ earlier than Mia.	turns in
Mia ___ with music, while Leo watches a show.	winds down
Which is precise? Mia ___ school at eight.	heads out for
Which is precise? Leo ___ at 6:45 but stays in bed until 7:00.	wakes up

Learning Path 4 · Present Simple & Phrasal verbs

Present Simple and phrasal verbs

How it works

The routine system

Use the Present Simple for repeated actions. I get up at seven. She gets up at seven. Match the verb to the subject.

Affirmative forms

I / you / we / they use the base verb. He / she / it use the third-person form: gets, watches, studies, has, does, goes.

> Mia wakes up, has breakfast and goes to school.

Negatives and questions

Use don't / doesn't + base verb. Put do / does before the subject in questions; the main verb stays in its base form.

> She doesn't go out on weekdays.
> Does she go out on weekdays?
> When does she get home?

Short answers

Use the matching auxiliary: Yes, I do. No, I don't. Yes, she does. No, she doesn't. A short answer does not repeat the main verb.

Frequency and word order

Put always / usually / often / sometimes / never before the main verb, but after be: She usually has breakfast. She is usually tired. Never already has a negative meaning. With coordinated verbs, keep agreement consistent: She gets home and does her homework. Be uses am / is / are; these activities use be only to practise adverb placement.

Verb, particle and object

A phrasal verb combines a verb and a particle: wind down, turn in, pick up, put off. Learn its meaning and object pattern together.

© 2026 Roger Beltran · English Lab · All rights reserved

pick up the kids*

Bold = verb; shaded = particle; underlined = object.

Transitive or intransitive?

The object is the person or thing affected by the action. I pick up the kids has an object (transitive use). I wind down and I turn in need no object (intransitive uses). Check the meaning: another use of the same verb may have a different pattern.

Separable + noun object

For pick up and put off, a noun object can go after the particle or between verb and particle.

I pick up the kids. = I pick the kids up.

I put off my homework. = I put my homework off.

Both noun positions are accepted in the activities.

Separable + pronoun object

An object pronoun must go between the verb and the particle.

I pick them up. ✓

I pick up them. ×

I put it off. ✓

Use them for the kids; it for my homework.

Fixed / inseparable pattern

The routine expressions catch up on and get down to keep all their parts together. The noun or pronoun follows the complete expression.

I catch up on a show. → I catch up on it.

I get down to my homework. → I get down to it.

These three-part expressions end in a preposition. Do not move the object into the middle.

Explain the pattern, not just the sentence

Compare I put it off with I get down to it. The pronoun is the same, but its position follows each expression's pattern. Put off is separable; get down to is fixed. Context does not make an incorrect pronoun position acceptable.

Practice from the Learning Path, with answers

Sentence	Answer	Why
Choose the accurate description.	She usually has breakfast and goes to school on foot.	Both verbs agree with she; usually precedes the first main verb.
Choose the accurate question.	Why does Leo usually turn in early?	Why + does + subject + usually + base verb.
Which explanation accounts for I pick them up?	Them is a pronoun object of a separable verb.	Object pronouns must go between pick and up.
Why is I catch up on them correct?	Catch up on is fixed, so the pronoun follows on.	Three-part catch up on keeps its parts together.
What is at ten in I turn in at ten?	a time phrase, not a direct object	Turn in is intransitive in this routine meaning.
Choose the accurate negative.	She doesn't usually sleep in on weekdays.	Doesn't + usually + base verb keeps the routine meaning.
Complete: Leo usually ___ his homework before he ___ down. (do / winds / does / wind / does / winds)	does / winds	Both verbs have the singular subject Leo/he.

© 2026 Roger Beltran · English Lab · All rights reserved

Sentence	Answer	Why
Choose both acceptable noun forms.	She puts off her homework / She puts her homework off	Put off permits both positions for a noun object.
Choose the accurate contextual sentence.	She picks them up before she gets down to work.	Them goes inside pick up; work follows the fixed expression get down to.
Replace the kids with them: She usually picks up the kids after school.	She usually picks them up after school.	Move the pronoun between picks and up without moving usually.
Complete the fixed expression: I get ___ my homework. (down to / to down)	down to	The complete expression is get down to, not get to down.
Change they to Mia: They usually get home and do their homework.	Mia usually gets home and does her homework.	Both verbs change to third person, and their becomes her.
Make this negative: Leo always goes to bed early.	Leo doesn't always go to bed early.	Doesn't + always + go; this means not on every occasion.
Rewrite using it: Although I put off my homework, I get down to my homework later.	Although I put it off, I get down to it later.	Put off takes it in the middle; get down to takes it at the end.
Use the other noun position: She picks up the kids before dinner.	She picks the kids up before dinner.	Pick up is separable and the object is a noun phrase.
Use them: I catch up on emails before I pick up the kids.	I catch up on them before I pick them up.	Both objects are plural, but each expression has a different placement rule.
Correct both errors: She usually get home early, but she don't start her homework immediately.	She usually gets home early, but she doesn't start her homework immediately.	Use gets in the affirmative and doesn't + start in the negative.
Correct: How often does Leo watches a film?	How often does Leo watch a film?	The main verb stays watch after does.
Correct both positions: I put off it, then I get it down to.	I put it off, then I get down to it.	It belongs inside put off, but after get down to.
Correct: She picks the up kids before she catches emails up on.	She picks the kids up before she catches up on emails. / She picks up the kids before she catches up on emails.	Keep the noun phrase the kids together; keep catch up on together.
Correct: I get to down my homework after school.	I get down to my homework after school.	The fixed order is get down to, followed by its object.
